Re: JOINT LETTER: Request for a meeting
Our call for Canada to end the war in Ukraine, ratify the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons, and to reduce military spending and prioritize diplomacy and disarmament

Dear MP Fry,

We, the Canadian Voice of Women for Peace (VOW), and the Women's International League for Peace & Freedom Canada (WILPF), greatly appreciate the work that you are doing as the Special Representative on Gender Issues at the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly and as a member of the Parliamentarians for Nuclear Non-proliferation and Disarmament (PNND). We are writing to you about our concerns related to Canada's foreign policies and are requesting a meeting with you.

As you may know, our two organizations represent thousands of women peacebuilders and activists across the country. For decades, we have worked on education, research and campaigns related to peace, nonviolence, disarmament, demilitarization, the Women Peace and Security (WPS) agenda, climate action among many other issues. We have provided more information about us and some resources at the end of this letter. We would like to request a Zoom meeting with you at your earliest convenience to discuss Canada's role in the ongoing war in Ukraine, disarmament and WPS.

We would like to briefly share with you some of our concerns in this letter and hope to discuss them further with you. First, we are opposed to Canada sending weapons to Ukraine, which is only prolonging the war and suffering of the people. We are concerned that Canada has not called for a ceasefire or negotiations to end the fighting. It is in the best interests of not only women and children in Ukraine, but all Ukrainians, Russians and the whole world to stop the war and come to a negotiated resolution. We would also like to let you know that one of our younger members has been awarded the OSCE-UNODA Scholarship for Peace and Security: Training on Arms Control and Disarmament. We are very pleased she won this scholarship and we believe that the federal government should fund similar opportunities for Canadian youth to learn about and work in the field of arms control, non-proliferation and disarmament.

Second, we are distressed that Canada did not send an official representative or delegation to observe the First Meeting of Parties on the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons (TPNW) in Vienna from June 21-June 23. Instead, a week later the Prime Minister, Minister Anand and Minister Joly went to Madrid to attend the NATO Summit. With the Strategic Concept, allies including Canada have re-affirmed NATO's dangerous nuclear deterrence as a supreme guarantee of security even though it risks an accidental or intentional use of nuclear weapons. We believe that nuclear weapons must be abolished for global security. We call on the federal government to sign and ratify the TPNW and show strong leadership for disarmament at the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty Review conference in August.

Third, we are against the federal government increasing military spending. According to NATO's latest Defence Expenditures report, Canada's military spending has increased from $20 billion in 2014 to $35 billion in 2022, which is a 75% increase. In March, another $8 billion was added to the defence budget. Minister Anand said that military spending would continue to rise. However, last month, the Parliamentary Budget Officer released a report Canada's Military Expenditure and the NATO 2% Spending Target, which stated:

The PBO forecast thus indicates that total Government of Canada military expenditures will increase from $36.3 billion in the 2022-23 fiscal year to approximately $51.0 billion in 2026-27. The corresponding increase in the share of military expenditure to GDP is from 1.33 percent in 2022-23 to 1.59 percent in 2026-27 (Emphasis added. Please see reference at the end of this letter).

Thus, for Canada to reach NATO's 2% GDP target, the PBO determined that the federal government would have to add an additional $75 billion to the defence budget over the next five years. This is a staggering amount. Moreover, NATO demands that Canada spend 20% on new equipment. The federal government has announced the procurement of new fighter jets, armed drones, attack helicopters and warships. VOW and WILPF are opposed to any increases to military spending and the procurement of new weapons systems. This spending is irresponsible when Canada is a climate emergency and Canadians are faced with pressing social challenges like homelessness, poverty, the pandemic and the opioid crisis. We are calling for a reduction of military spending, phased demilitarization and a re-allocation into the green, care economy.

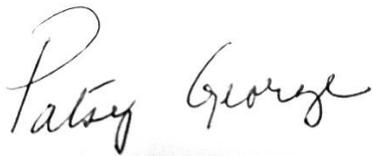

Canadians need investment in programs that will improve their well-being and quality of life including health care, child care, elder care, affordable housing, education, climate action, environmental protection, public transit and arts and culture. First Nations communities especially need greater investment to fulfill the federal government's commitment to implement the recommendations of Truth & Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action and of the Final Report of the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls. We also bring to your attention that the federal government has committed to do a gender-based analysis of public spending and policy-making, so we are asking that a gender-based analysis of military spending be conducted and publicly reported. We believe that such an analysis would show that greater investment in the military does not meet the needs and priorities of women and girls in Canada. We are also wondering about the possibility of the Senate doing a study on the opportunity costs of investing in the military and new fighter jets instead of spending in federal social and environmental programs.

Finally, we are concerned that Canadian peacekeeping and peace support operations through the United Nations has not been a priority for the federal government for many years. According to the United Nations' Peacekeeping office's latest report on the ranking on country contributions, Canada is currently ranked 70th in the world with only 58 soldiers wearing a UN blue helmet. Despite the federal government's Elsie Initiative to increase women in peace support operations, Canada has only 21 women serving with the UN. By contrast, Canada has 1,375 soldiers involved in one NATO operation, Operation REASSURANCE in Eastern Europe. Defence Minister Anand announced that Canada would be sending even more troops to Latvia though this will escalate the crisis in the region. We want Canada to be a leader in peace, peacekeeping and disarmament not provocative military operations. We would like the federal government to conduct a study on peacekeeping, peacebuilding and disarmament.

We would like to discuss these issues with you and more. We would also like to hear more about your work with the OSCE and PNND and your priorities for the fall session. We can meet with you at a time that works best in your busy schedule. We can be reached at info@vowpeace.org or by phone: 416-603-7915. We look forward to meeting with you.

Sincerely,
